Basic Rules & Regulations for Playing Volleyball

In volleyball, players work together to return the ball over the net in three hits or fewer, without letting the ball touches the ground.

Players

Both teams must have six players on the court to begin play. Players follow the proper rotational order through each set. Players rotate between six positions on the court, including three back-row positions behind the attack line and three front-row positions in front of the attack line. Each time a team gains the right to serve, its players must rotate one position clockwise. Once the server contacts the ball, players can move out of their rotational positions to play the point. Players in a back-row position must not attack the ball above the net and in front of the attack line, however.

Serve

Team captains complete a coin toss before the game to determine the team that will serve first.

Play

Teams must return the ball over the net in three hits or fewer. Blocks do not count toward the team's hit total. If one player hits the ball twice in succession or contacts the ball illegally by palming, catching or throwing it, her team loses the point. If a back-row player attacks the ball illegally, his team loses the point. If any player touches the net or net posts, the team loses the point. Teams win points when the opposing team commits a violation, fails to return the ball over the net, lets the ball touch the ground inbounds or hits the ball into the net or out of bounds.

Scoring

Teams can win points on their own serve and on their opponent's serve. The first team to win 25 points with a two-point lead wins the set. Each match will be of 3 sets.

Important note: - All rules of National Volleyball Championship will be followed in the game. Decision of the referee will be final. Any misbehaviour will lead to disqualification of the team.
